THOROBRED

DEDICATION

Dean Ann J. Hunter

We dedicate this annual to Dean Ann Jackson Heartwell Hunter for the high ideals of womanhood that she has exemplified on our campus.

She has been with us since 1933 and has brought rich experiences which included Dean of Women at other colleges and Director of Student Centers in this country and abroad.

She has been acclaimed by national organizations and is now in Who is Who Among Women in the United States. We all hold her dear and she is even more noteworthy among the women for the initiation of the Annual Women's Day Banquet.

She is Dean of Women, and Associate Professor of Education and Psychology.

We hope that she will continue to give us this undying service, so that we may continue to be strengthened to meet the test of time.

DEDICATION

Rev. William W. Jones

We dedicate this project to Rev. William Warren Jones. He has brought many rich experiences in the areas of science and religion. He has been extremely active in National Scholastic Honor Societies and especially with Alpha Kappa Mu. He has been one of the framers of the Kappa Nu Chapter here on our campus and has been National Regional Director for many years, and local faculty advisor.

He is presently Director of Religious Activities, College Chaplain, Associate Professor and Acting Head of the Department of Mathematics and Physics.

Mr. Jones has served this community since 1929.

We are deeply honored to have the privilege to dedicate this issue to you, a wise and understanding counselor, a warm friend, a devoted teacher and prudent religious leader.

EDITORIALS OF THE SIX PRESIDENTS

JOHN EDWARD JACKSON, 1887-1896, was the first president. At that time the school was, The State Normal School for Colored Persons. He developed a practice school, constructed Hume Hall, and Trade Building. He developed and changed the curriculum from a few primary courses for Rural Teachers to include departmentalization courses in economics, agriculture and mechanics. The schools oldest building is named for him. His administration filled a second or interim period, 1907-1910.

JOHN EDWARD GIVENS, 1898-1900, was the second president. He came to the college with a rich background. He was responsible for the purchase and creation of the college farm and he secured appropriation for the first new building.

JAMES HALLOWAY, 1900-1907 & 1910-1912, the third president, was first a professor of Agriculture. He broadened the curriculum, remodeled buildings, and reconditioned driveways. He was responsible for increased appropriation for a new girl's Dormitory. He became the first president to be appointed an official member of the College's Board of Trustees

GREEN PINCKNEY RUSSELL, 1912-1923, brought to his administration post a fund of experience in teaching and school administration. He began a system of improvements in the Industrial and Academic Departments, in the general campus an increase in faculty, and a change in the course of study from a Normal School to a college. It acquired the name Kentucky State Industrial College. He served in the interim period after 1924 until the arrival of President R. B. Atwood, 1929. He is also responsible for the name of the College football team, "Kentucky Thorobreds." He is more commonly known as Professor Russell.

FRANCIS MARION WOODS, 1923-1924, was the fifth person to guide the college administration. He brought a long career in many important educational positions from many sections of the country. The College's growth continued successfully under his leadership.

RUFUS BALLARD ATWOOD, 1929--present time, has channelled the college over the greatest portion of its existence. Under his leadership the school has changed from an Industrial College to a four year, "a rating institution, fully accredited with the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Kentucky State Department of Education, National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education and American Association of Colleges for Teachers Education.

The curriculum has changed to conform to the society and the time, the faculty has increased in number and quality and the physical plant reflects a multimillion dollar organization with plans for continued growth.

PRESIDENT RUFUS B. ATWOOD

January 14, 1960

To the Students of Kentucky State College:

The Yearbook Staff this year has chosen "TRANSITION" as its theme, that is, transition from the Kentucky State College of yesteryear to the college of today. This theme is appropriate and in keeping with the times in which we live. Some author has said, "There is nothing permanent except change."

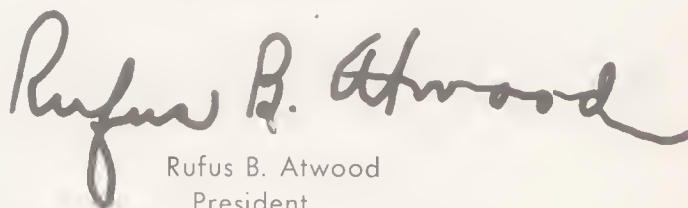

The face of our college has changed over the years, new buildings have risen here and there, students are more numerous and younger, some integration has occurred, the curriculum is broader and requirements are more rigid and standardized.

There are some things, however, which have not changed and we hope they never will: devotion of faculty to the lofty job of instructing and guiding youth to the better things of life; dedication of students to scholarly achievement and accomplishment up to the maximum degree possible and a consecration by faculty and student to the service of society.

These qualities characterized the Kentucky State College of yesteryear and it is the task of all of us who are here today to see that these virtues remain forever. We of today have this obligation to those who have passed through these walls as well as to those who are yet to come.

I am certain that we accept the challenge as well as the opportunity.

Very sincerely yours,

Rufus B. Atwood
